

About the course

- ▶ Introduction to Translation (E-C)
- ▶ Core course for BA in Translation; elective University-wide
- ▶ ~45 students
- ▶ Mostly Year One majoring in Translation (80%); some non-major (20%)

The screenshot shows the uReply mobile app interface. At the top, it says 'uReply Select Your Role'. Below this, there are two buttons: 'Teacher @ Lingnan' with a teacher icon and 'Student @ Lingnan' with a student icon. The bottom of the screen shows a dark red navigation bar with 'Home' and 'Log Out' options. The URL <https://ln.ed2.mobi/> is displayed below the screenshot.

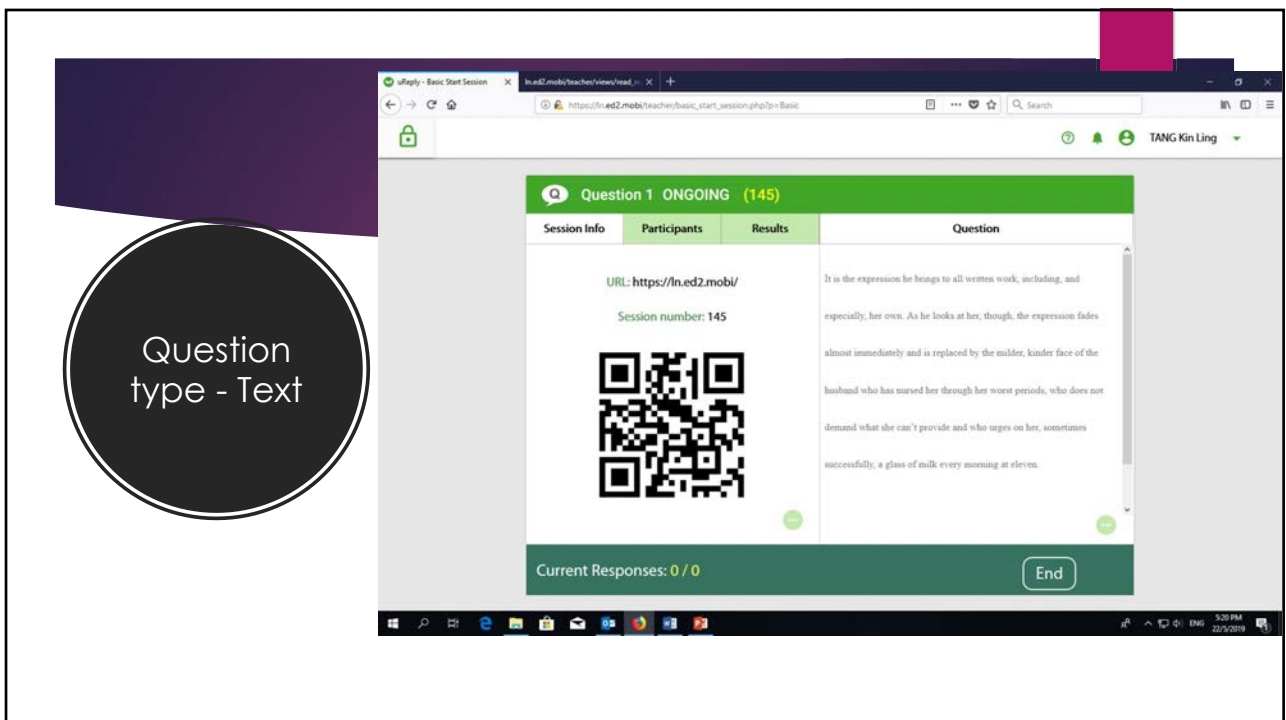

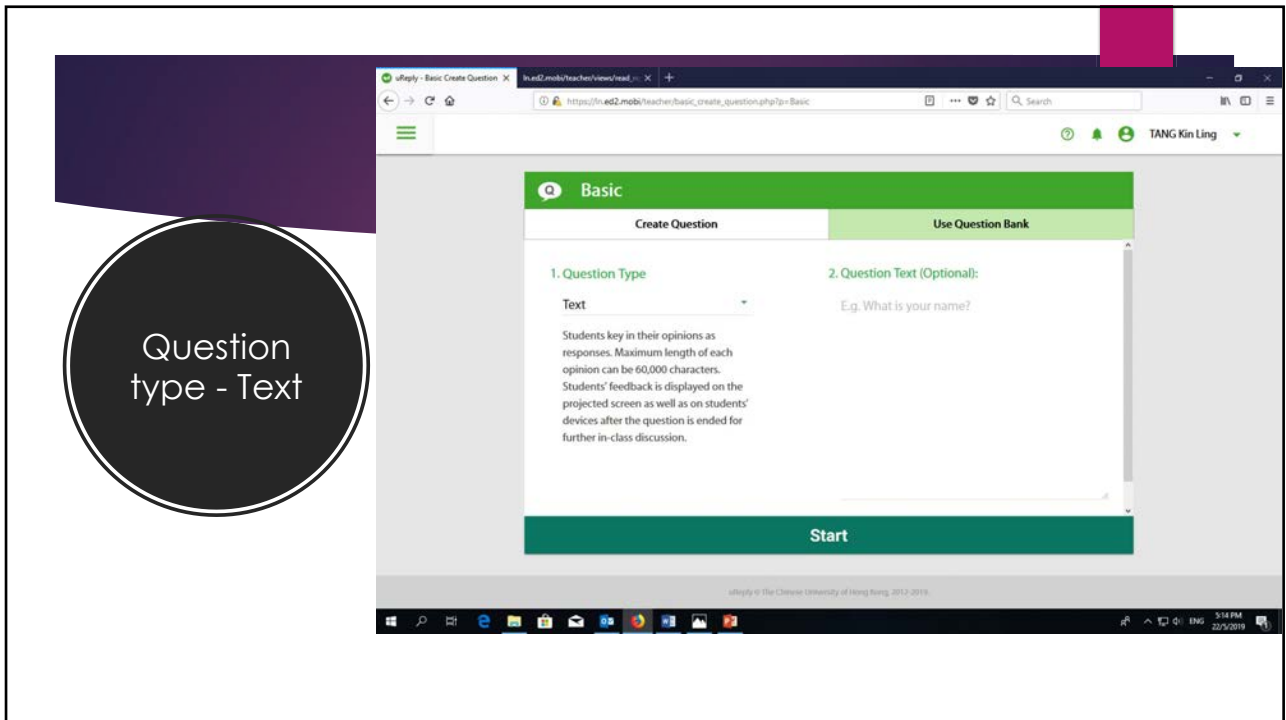

The slide features a dark purple background on the left with the text "Course features" in white. On the right, there are four horizontal bars of different colors, each with an icon and text:

-  Theory and Practice
-  In-class translation exercises
-  Multiple translations possible based on the same source text
-  Peer-learning

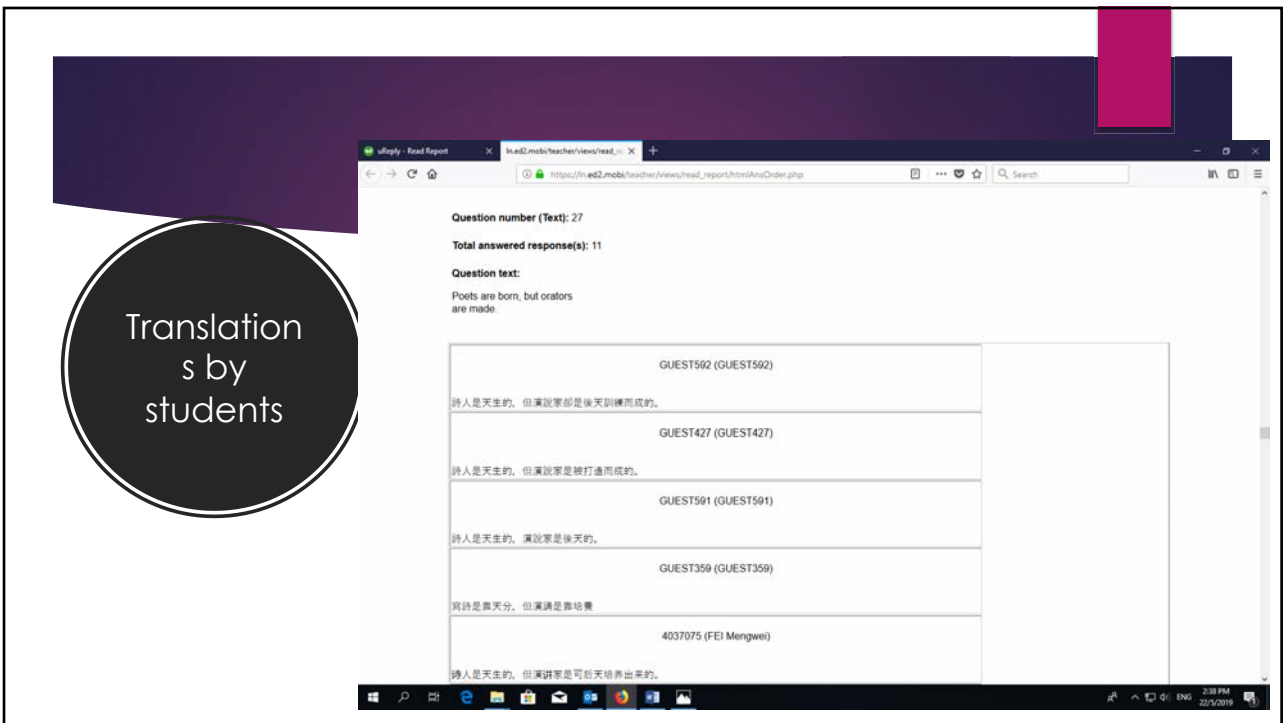

The slide features a dark purple background on the left with the text "Challenges in doing in-class exercises" in white. On the right, there are three horizontal bars of different colors, each with an icon and text:

-  Students feel reluctant to share their thoughts
-  Only one target text discussed at a time
-  Students may feel excluded and demotivated

Students inputting their responses

Translations by students

A screenshot of the uReply 'Read Report' interface. On the left, a black circle with white text reads 'Translations by students'. The main window shows a question report for question number 28. The question text is: 'Many advances in computer technology took place in the twenty years after 1950. They are generally classified into four stages or generations.' Below this, there are four response entries, each with a unique ID and a Chinese translation of the question text. The response IDs are QUEST591, QUEST359, 4037075 (FEI Mengwei), and QUEST427. The interface includes a browser address bar, navigation icons, and a Windows taskbar at the bottom.

A screenshot of the uReply 'Basic Start Session' interface. On the left, a black circle with white text reads 'Question type - Multiple choice'. The main window shows a session titled 'Question 1 ONGOING (146)'. It displays session information including the URL 'https://in.ed2.mobi/' and session number '146', along with a QR code. The question text is: 'How would you translate the word 'Cappuccino'?'. There are two multiple-choice options: 'A. 卡布其諾' and 'B. 意大利泡沫咖啡'. The interface shows 'Current Responses: 0 / 0' and an 'End' button. The user's name 'TANG Kin Ling' is visible in the top right corner. The interface includes a browser address bar, navigation icons, and a Windows taskbar at the bottom.

Mobile technologies in Classroom

Use of smartphones

Fun

Engaged and motivated